Church security; two words seldom, if ever, put together not too long ago. But evil has indeed invaded our sanctuaries and the term is now commonplace.

As violence is becoming more common in Houses of Worship and other faith-based environments across America, a growing host of responsible defenders are saying, “No more!” They are doing what needs done to protect their friends and families in Houses of Worship.

The Faith Based Security Network (FBSN) is the professional networking association of those dedicated protectors determined to do this right. Become a member today and connect with others pioneering the way.

The FBSN is your connection to others in your immediate community and across the nation.
